NASIG's New Partnership with the Library Publishing Coalition

Steve Kelley

NASIG is proud to announce that we have become a strategic affiliate of the Library Publishing Coalition.

According to their webpage, the Library Publishing Coalition's purpose "is to support an evolving distributed range of library publishing practices and to further the interests of libraries involved in publishing activities on their campuses."

The NASIG Executive Board approved the partnership on October 6th, 2014 at a meeting in Washington, DC.

We are excited about the possibilities of cooperation between our two organizations.
